

India Clean Air Summit – Air Sensors International Conference Partnership Event

In the quickly expanding field of small affordable air quality sensors, ASIC is proud to partner with the India Clean Air Summit, hosted by the Center for Study of Science, Technology and Policy, to develop a single-day conference hyper-focused on the current state of small air quality sensor use in India, the Air Sensors International Conference - International Connection Hub. To support an equitable transition to cleaner air, an understanding of small affordable air quality sensors and their appropriate uses within communities struggling with air pollution is vital to advising next steps in air quality management. ASIC's extensive network of air quality sensor experts alongside the real world experiences of India-based researchers and communities will be present well-rounded research on the importance of integrating small affordable air quality sensors throughout communities.

The inaugural ASIC-ICH will be held in Bangalore, India on Friday, August 26th immediately following the India Clean Air Summit (ICAS, August 23-25). We expect to host around 100-150 attendees during the Friday sessions and 250+ for the full ICAS-ASIC event. The ASIC portion will include 8 sessions with local and international speakers, exhibit booths, and several poster displays. Additionally, we will host a few networking opportunities during the breaks and complementary lunch.

In order to keep this educational event accessible to the most people possible, there is no cost to register for the event. Due to this we are asking for generous support to make the ASIC-ICH events sustainable and ensure they can continue to spread across the globe.

We invite you to join us in this effort by being an event sponsor and supporting the conference planning or attendance of participants. Please review the categories and related benefits on the next page, then connect with ASIC Manager, Sandra Hall, sehall@ucdavis.edu to select a sponsorship or create a customized opportunity.

Thank you to our current partners for providing the initial support to kick-start this endeavor!
